GERRY GAENG OF ROSENBERG|MARTIN|GREENBERG TO RECEIVE TOWSON UNIVERSITY 'S 2007 DEAN'S RECOGNITION AWARD

BALTIMORE (April 15, 2007)— Rosenberg|Martin|Greenberg, a Baltimore-based law firm, is pleased to announced that Gerry Gaeng has been selected as the recipient of Towson University's 2007 Dean's Recognition Award for the College of Liberal Arts. Gaeng, a partner with Rosenberg|Martin|Greenberg, is an alumnus of Towson University where he earned an undergraduate degree in philosophy.

The Dean's Recognition Award is presented annually to an alumna/us from each college who has displayed outstanding leadership and notable success in their field of expertise. Gaeng is being honored for his achievements during his legal career and the contributions he makes through organizations such as the Lawyer's Campaign Against Hunger, the Board of Governors of the Federal Bar Association, the Judicial Administration Committee of the Baltimore City Bar Association and others.

"Gerry Gaeng's distinguished career is notable in many respects and everyone at our firm applauds him on receiving this award," said Ben Rosenberg, managing partner of Rosenberg|Martin|Greenberg.

After graduating from Towson University, Gaeng attended the Emory School of Law where he received the prestigious Woodruff Fellowship in Law. He graduated from Emory with honors. Gaeng completed a clerkship in the United States District Court for the District of Maryland and launched a career as a litigator in complex business litigation matters in Baltimore. He served a two-year term as Assistant Attorney General and has provided legal counsel for a number of colleges and universities in Maryland including St. Mary's College and Bowie State University.

Gaeng has served as the President of Towson University's Alumni Association, a member of the President's Board of Visitors, and as a member of the Board of Directors of the Towson University Foundation. He is presently a member of the Towson University Founder's Society and is frequently called upon to serve on various ad hoc university committees.

Gaeng will be honored during the Distinguished Alumni and Dean's Recognition Awards Banquet on Thursday, May 3rd at the Holiday Inn in Timonium.
